He was 47 years old.

Mr. Nutt was returning by chartered plane to his home in Louisville, Ky., after a banquet speech in nearby Cullman. Two pilots aboard the plane were killed. Mr. Nutt was known as "Hee Haw's" "prime minister of humor," and "The Grady Nutt Show," ran briefly on NBC.

After a short time as a pastor and administrator, Mr. Nutt became a professional entertainer in 1969, using his experience with rural Protestant religion as the basis of his humorous sketches.
